

period of time he has been in service, he has been taking courses, and he hopes that he will finish by the time he retires. And they should be back approximately July of this year. And when he returns, he has a chance now. He has worked himself up, that he can go to San Francisco State College, and the Air Force will pay for all this. So, he says, seems like now, he's going to go ahead and get his degree at last. I'm very proud of him. And I just feel like there is no other brother like him because he actually worked and also served our country as well and also has a family too which is a great family, I feel. His wife also went to Haskell, and that's where they met. I don't know exactly what courses that she took, but she's very intelligent person. And she's really wonderful. I can find very many ways in which she is so much like my mother in raising her family, because she's raising her children the way that we were raised. And I can see it in the family so much. It just reminds me so much of the life and childhood times that we had. (End Of Side A)

I think I've summarized all my father's parents' background. And I'd like to go on back to my mother's parents, Richard Coker Wise and Liz Coker. My mother's father passed away a month before she was born. So, she never had the opportunity to see her father, but I do have pictures of him. And I have been trying to do a family tree on my mother's side, which we have traced way back, and it seems we have come from England. However, my brother's going to do some research work over there before he comes back. So, on our certificate of degree of blood from the Muskogee office shows that we are 7/8's Indian. So, therefore, that 1/8 I don't know. It must be English. But none the less, this may be possibly why, like I said, my friends say, "Well, you don't act like an Indian," which--because real talkative and outgoing with people. I love to associate with people. I love to talk with them. It's easy for me to get into a group and talk with
