

west over here, southwest, I don't know just exactly where it is back in some field back there. The coal company -- The Sobner Coal Company, was digging coal down there, they sure didn't dig up that nigger cemetery, they went around that. They's smart enough to know they'd get their butt in the fire.

(They'd surely would.)

And that--I know where's there's one grave by itself over here on the old Whisnot place, I don't know who's grave that is, but then there's one grave there. Nicholson, Bible cemetery is that --Old Man and Old Lady Farrow buried the first baby up here at Talala cemetery, they say, that was buried, it was just out there on a little hill, rise, you know. And the Old Lady Farrow is in a rest home in Claremore today and the old man has been dead for several years. I seen in the paper where Old Lady Timberlin fell and broke her hip, 103 years old.

(I read that in the paper.)

TRAINS ARE ALL GONE - DEPOTS ALSO

All trains have left.

(Yeah, all the depots seems like they're gone.)

They never go north.

(No.)

There ain't none of those gone. Ain't none at Claremore. Wagoner, I think has got one.

(Yeah, Wagoner's got one.)

And Talala's got one, and that there agent Rose Daniels, has been agent there for years they still got her. I don't think there's any at Delaware or Lenapah either, nor South Coffeyville, there's none in Coffeyville.

(Coffeyville would be the next nearest one, I guess.)
