

said. And I'm glad they thinks that away and I'm glad they thinks that much of me.

(Who, out of your ten children that you had--how many are still living, Mrs. Hair?)

Five.

(Five are still living. Do they live in and around here?)

Yeah. Well, my oldest daughter, she lives right about a mile back here on the Creek, you know. And Sam, he's living right here. And she's living here. She lives here with me and then Minnie at Muskogee, and the other one at Tulsa.

(And your other boy in Tulsa.)

But when his days off though he comes down, stays a week, two or three days while he's off. He comes down here and stay with us and help out. And they do things. Help her buy groceries, something like that. Help around or pay a little rent or debt. He'll come down and see if we need anything.

(And he has a car and if you need to go anywhere, he'll help you out by taking you to places?)

Yeah, that's what he does. And he's in Tulsa. Course they're all not too far around. Even though I'm worried and took sick or anything like that, they just all here, just pretty near together.

And they all right here. I always thank the Lord to see that I'm able enough that I can get around. And I'm trying to live for God.

And live a Christian life and that's the way I'm living. And when my husband said when he was laying on his deathbed, said, "Mama,"

I was sitting beside of him, he said, "Mama, well, I'm going."

He said, "I'm going to leave you some little children." But said,

"Be sure and work for God while you're living." Said, "Work for
