

Right up in here. They're up northwest of us.

(Well, are they're many of them?)

Yeah, there's quite a few of 'em. And they're pretty wealthy.

I don't say they're wealthy. But they get quite a bunch of money.

Their chief is in the hospital right now. Heart condition. And they had a payment here right recently. They got about eight million dollars. Then they got three million here not too long ago.

(Well, now are they in that lead and zinc mining country?)

No, they're just-- Well, they're may be a few of them has it.

But I expect this is their reservation over on this side. It don't show their reservation. I don't know why.

(I believe someone told me they thought it was in here.)

Yeah, that's where it's at..

(Yeah, at one time I guess there was lots of Indians in this country, pretty well established.)

Well, we say there are lots of 'em. Yeah, and them old--when I went to Muskogee or Window Rock and come down here. I took over the records at the Muskogee office. I go up there lot of days and prowl. And I can show you books on the country. I'll tell you, there was 200 people over the whole damn country at that time.

(Well.)

SHAWNEE RESERVATION

That is all this reservation right here belong to the Shawnee.

Only about a hundred and eighty people, I think.

(That gave each one of 'em quite a bit of land then.)

Yeah. Then 'course this Mococ reservation. Then the Shawnees sold to them people and government moved them in.

(Yeah. Well, they didn't have a very big tract of land, did they?)

No. 'Course they was a small bunch of people.
