and seventy (1870), you know, and possibly before. That's when it was formally established in eighteen seventy-one (1871), but it was used before that though, but---)

Well, how are these in alphabetical?

- (Yes, the cemeteries are grouped by counties. Let's see, let me find the county page here. Adair County, Cherokee, Craig County, Delaware County, Delaware County, and---)

Mayes County.

(---Mayes County. And there's a little introduction as to the purpose of the book. Now, in the back of it here---)

The names of---

(These are all family names in here. And the number after here, it tells you what page to find the family name on that particular cemetery.)

Uh-huh.

(For instance, the Bird family, look on pages four, fourteen, fifty, eighty-two, eighty-three, and ninty. For the Booth family, page fifty-seven, so on down the line.)

Well, now, the Ballards--oh, boy, there's so many of those.

(There's a lot of Ballards.)

Alright now, this Ballard Cemetery, you know, where it is now?

(Yes, ma'am, but---)

Well, there's another Janana, Janana Ballard.

(Yeah, mmmm-hmmm.)

Are they related to you folks in any way?

(In some ways, they--I don't know how, but I've heard my folks talk about the)

Well, the reason I ask, now, that Ballard Cemetery was moved.
