

"What's (static-words not clear) from over there at Haskell. We'll just drive over there and take that course." I'd kinda like to do it.. Bill would too. He has his mother's Cherokee Bible. But he can't read it.

(Frozen Rock Cemetery?)

Bill: Well, what do you mean? How long its been there?

(Well, yes and how did it get its name?)

Well, I'll tell you what. Straight east of there used to be the old ferry crossed from Ft. Gibson to Muskogee. On through there west, even before Muskogee was even thought of during Civil War, you know. And got used to that ferry Frozen Rock Cemetery. 'Course on that old ferry, it went out west of there across the Arkansas River. It was the first cemetery. And the reason why they named it Frozen Rock, Dad was telling me. You see that's the high side of the river. You've seen that.

(Yeah.)

Way back there I don't know whether is true or not, but seem to be a lot of boulders. The water seeped out of those rocks there on straight bank. Run down there in streams. In wintertime the water would freeze on side of the rocks.

(Well.)

They call that Frozen Rock. Well, the first Frozen Rock community, church, I guess it was then and school was on that road. 'Course it was leading to the cemetery and on that road. And I don't know what year it was--it was but then it was moved off of that road when they opened up the section line. And put over there--

Mrs. Human: Falcon's place.

Let's see Falcon's Corner was called Frozen Rock School and Chapel.

(Well.)
