

(Well, now, this, this part of the country through here, this is Creek Nation country, isn't it?)

Unidentified voice: Uh-huh.

(Have there been a lot of Creek Indians lived in this area? In your life time?)

Well, yeah, off hand I don't know many names, but there has been quite a few Creeks live here.

(What are some of the old families that lived here in this country when you were a young fella? Besides your family, let's see, that'd be the Graysons, and did you mention the name Bullett awhile ago?)

Unidentified voice: Yeah, and there's Jim Bullet and, let's see, yes, Bullett.

(The Washington family?)

Unidentified voice: Yeah, Johnny Washington.

(Washington family, Wildcat family, and were there a Vann family in this country?)

Vann?

(Uh-huh?)

Yeah, Vann family, where they stayin' down there.

(Uh-huh, and Harjos, were there any Harjos in this country?)

Yeah, there was Harjos. (Sentence not clear)

(Rhinehart?)

Yeah, that's the man, you got his name. He was one run the store. His two daughters are still living. One in Muskogee, I think, I don't know where other one is. And they still own their land, an the new
