

where them Becks live--a lot of Becks in there.

(Yeah, was there a Beck Prairie up in there too?)

Yeah, there was Beck Prairie. That's over there on the highway to Gentry. I think there was nine of them Beck brothers. Boy, they was a big family!

(They must have been!)

Old Aunt Sadie Beck was the mother. Old Harlan, and Bluten, and Sam, and Joe--they're all gone now.

(You know, I've often wondered, how did that little town get it's name? Row rather than Rowe.)

Well, I don't know. I don't know how in the dickens that started.

(I've heard of the word row referring to a guy that's always fightin', raisin' cane or something---)

Some called in Row and some called Row. I swear I don't know how it got its name. You know, that would be, I tell you--it would be interesting to find out towns and how they got their names. Now, there was Eucha, New Eucha---

(Yeah.)

I guess at one time New Eucha used to be quite a place.

(Yeah, it was quite a little place in there. That was another place that progress and changes killed a town and community.)

Well, you know, when they put in these dams and things, you know, they run a lot of them out.

(Oh, all up and down the river.)

Yeah.
