

Well, he's done awful funny, didn't he, there?

(Yeah. Well, has this little community had more stores in it at one time?)

No, no, no, just been one store there. And they really do a good business.

(Oh, yes.)

They've got --

(I've always heard of bayou Manard. It's such an old place and historic place and lots of things have happened here in your time.)

Yeah.

(Interruption.)

(-- part of valley too that --)

Yes, it is.

(Through here, rich valley.)

I tell you at one time, I sure was -- lots of farming going on here.

(Well.)

Seems so strange. The fellows told me twenty-five years ago, if it would come to this, except just to stock rising.

(Yeah.)

I would just told him he didn't know what he was talking about.

(That's right. Well, you've seen a lot of changes in your time now?)

Yeah, yeah, I'm eighty-one years old.

(Yeah.)

(Interruption -- static at this section of tape.)

I was at a funeral home up in Tahlequah. It was about the first of January.

(Sentence not clear.) "How old are you, Mr. Harris?" I said, "I'm eighty-one." "Oh, you forgot, haven't you?" (Laughter.)

CATTLE RUSTLING TODAY

(They still got cattle rustling going on in this country.)
