

And we were, oh, kids, we all come up the creek, you know, horseback and in a wagon or buggy. We come right up this way and then back down the creek. See, Honey Creek is right off down there.

(Yeah.)

(Interruption)

Johnson O'Field's folks live there.

(Well, Johnson O'Field. That was his part of the country.)

Yeah. He was born right down in there.

(Yeah.)

Old man George Fields now--father--Sen George Fields, his old home is right out there in this field.

(Yeah.)

Had two houses. Had--lived with two sisters. And raised a family for both of 'em and one of 'em he had this place here and one of 'em down there. They call one the upper house and the lower house.

(Well, Upper house and lower house.)

And there's two sets of children.

(Well.)

Living there, by golly. (Interruption)

(It was the only road going to Southwest City, I guess.)

Yeah. Just wind around through the Bud Hollow.

(Well, now did this valley have a name here?)

Let me see, what did they call this. I don't think. No, I don't think they ever called it anything. Had any name that I know of, the only thing I ever heard was George--oh--way on down there they call it Bud, old man Bud Fields lived down there. And they call it Bud Field Spring branch. There's no spring up in here that I can recall.
