

MORRIS FAMILY

(Who?)

Morris.

(Morris. Well, they have owned land here then.)

Yes sir, but there was a big family of 'em. Bird Morris had all this land up to bottom.

(Yeah.)

John Morris had this opening on this side here.. And Tom Morris then was on up here where Hungry Buffington lives now right hand side of the road.

I'll show you that. I believe this is the old Morris Cemetery up here across the track. We can stop there on the way back if you'd like.

Might be--see something there. Might be that you'd like to come back and visit it sometime. And If you do we don't have--I don't imagine we'll have--I know we won't have enough time today to go to all the old cemeteries around here. I know of several around--family cemeteries. Sixkiller cemetery out here.

(Yeah.)

(Interruption)

(Look like a rich valley through here. What valley do they call this?)

This is the Ballard Creek.

(Ballard Creek Valley. That's a prominent family too.)

Ballards were. I thought maybe they was an Arkansas family because the creek ends up in Arkansas.

(Yeah.)

(Interruption)

Johnny?

(Interruption)

Just about around where Flint Creek runs in.
