

to..that medicine, supposed to be their's I heard', Lena Archilta. My mother told her one time down at Apache town, she told her alright I come see you about something. Course Lena she already knowed it I guess. Well alright I want you to go and get your medicine back. She called it medicine. You go ahead and get that buncle back, and you take care of it. That's yours, now. Well this Lena say alright I'll get it back some of these days. I'm gonna build a little house for it down at Apache. I want to build a little house for it and when I get it back I'm gonna get you down here and cook you up a big dinner, told my mother. Fix you a big dinner. Then after dinner I want you to go ahead and pray for me through that and then I'll get it back. You help me put it in that the house, I'm going to have built for it. I'm going to keep it in there. Rock along, and rock along and she never got it back. Now she gone today and I don't know where this medicine go. Whose going to get it now. Since she died, her kids, her daughter, she don't know nothing about it.

(Who is her daughter?)

I don't know her name, living today. That's Carter Comardly's wife. You know her. She don't know anything about it. I don't think she'd be interested in that and there it is right there and I just fell in my hands now. Still if when I should die, I don't no where it's going to go. So that's as far as I know.

(What's the name of the one you got?)

Well they call in Medicine Baby. That's what I heard.

(And what's the name of the one that Louise has got?)

I don't know.

(Does she ever open that one?)

I don't know. I don't think so. Yea. That's the story there is today.