

These Kiowas several have had it. They claim to have ten, but they claim that one of them burn up in a house, now they got nine. I don't know, them people what had them they died out and I don't know whose got them. I heard James Silverhorn got four or five.

(Did people say anything about Ray giving that bundle to me?)

No, I never heard. I don't know if they know about it or not. You got it at your house?)

(Yea)

Last time I was over there I heard about it about Ray giving that bundle. I went up there (to the museum) and I looked and I thought maybe you got it put up. But I never did see it.

(Several minutes of irrelevant conversation.)

(What about the cloth that people put on like when somebody covers your bundle?)

Well, you can go ahead and make use of it. This one I got, for instance somebody cover it today, Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday. You keep it on there four days. Take it off, fourth day. Anytime. I took one off this morning and when you take it off just rub it on yourself four times make motions, toward ground, mother earth. Fold it put it up. Or you can make use of it someways. Go back get it and scraps never throw it out or burn it. Just get em together the way my mother tell it, you get them scraps that ain't used, just tie it up and take it and tie it to a tree somewhere and let it rot. Not destroy or throw away or be laying around anywhere, don't burn it. That's the way I did it.

(Do you use the material yourself?)

Yea. You can make clothes out of it. Save all the scraps, even a piece of thread they pick it up. If you want to give it to someone they can use
