

and he named that boy. (sentence in Osage) Not middle of the day. (sentence in Osage) He names 'em. And I was going to ask (Osage name) when you folks come home where do you stay. Because I have to get up early for someone to bring me.

Mrs. Maker: We stay up there with his mother. North of town. But we want to, we were going to eat over here to, Jerome's place, you know (Indian name) place where he lives. He lives in there. And we thought it was convenient there, you know. And you're going to serve dinner there.

Mrs. Maker: We was going to serve dinner, but would breakfast be the better?

Well it doesn't matter, (Indian name). But here while back my only niece she ask me to name her nephew. (Indian words) So she (Indian name) he come after me. My nephew Dudley, he come after me and I went down there to his house and I named their child. Then from there, why, noon they come after me. They had dinner over there. (Sentence in Osage) That's where she had the dinner. So we, I went over there dinner and I explained it there. (Osage name) was there. Otis was there. She invited most from our mother's side. His Aunt Katherine and (Osage name) was there on my father's side. Katherine Whitehorn. Just us three was there on our father's side. But the rest of 'em was on Mama's side. She had nice dinner and all that and I explain it. What it was and what I named him. But his father, she was going to take me but she was busy. She was going to get dinner. She had to, we had dinner over there, over to Berta's house. I went down to Dudley's and named the child over there early of a morning. I told them that that was the way my father done. He names 'em early. And then later on if they're going to have good to serve, well they serve it.

(Mr. Maker: We could come after you early if you wanted us to come.)

Mrs. Green: I think one of these folks, will bring me, (Indian name). Dudley (Indian name) or Frances, too, one of them will bring me early Sunday. 'Cause--it be Sunday?

(Uh-huh.)

Mrs. Green: (Indian name) but they got to church, but one on
