

We didn't get any of that. Well, one of them ladies said that Eddy Red Eagle told her that this money we going to get, you people ain't going to get it. You get your regular payment from your husband, but you're not getting this money. That's what Eddy told her. I heard that too. 'Cause there just going to pay to the Osage full-blood. You're allotted. You get it. If you're deceased your children will get it. And its going to all be paid up here to the office when its going to be paid. They're not going to mail it direct to us like they did the other money. They're going to pay right up here to the agency. All the money be there. That's what I think.

Mrs. Maker: I like that idea.

Mrs. Green: Huh?

Mrs. Maker: I like it where just the Osages gets it.

Mrs. Green: But (Osage name) they got lot of petitions out. Not lot of 'em, but they got one. They said Mr. Logan is on it. He's the one. And they're hiring that Charley Lobah, a lawyer. And (Osage name), Mrs. Red Eagle one of 'em. And lot of more over there. They said Joe Bates is on there, too. He's fighting. They want to pay to the tribe, little ones and all.

Mrs. Maker: Yeah. We heard all that. But I don't believe they got enough with that.

Mrs. Green: I don't believe they'll do that either, myself. They're but a few of us allottees left. I think there's about 40 they counted. But there is more mixed bloods living. Some of 'em is 90. Some is over 90 years old. 'Cause they're going to fight it. They ain't going to let them pay the whole tribe. They're not going to do that. 'Cause there is more of them living today than we are. The oldest one we got is Mrs. McCarthy here. Then me and Edna Core, Nettie and Edna and me and maybe Mrs. Matin and Mrs. Shunkamolah and Mary. That's all that's allotted I believe. Living. Rest of them minors. I call 'em minors 'cause they're unallotted. Oh, (Osage name) Marie.

Mr. Maker: Your aunt, your aunt Mary, Mrs. Russell.

Mrs. Green: And Otis and Silas and Mary. So that's all that's living here.
