

But you could see it when you pass Wynona. You could see that high line going east. They run it out there, (Osage name) to put water in the wells, to open few of 'em. To bring it up so we could get little bit more money. And I got 3 wells out there now. Dudley said that they're all pumping good. They're finding oil there. One of them is gas well, and two of 'em is oil. Right out here I got a gas well there. If I lived out there I could burn gas for free. I don't have to pay like I'm doing here. But I always rent that place out every year.

Mrs. Maker: You know--this Alaska--The other day, day before yesterday, you know, they got lots of oil up there.

Mrs. Green: They're paying them cheap though.

Mrs. Maker: But that--they got so much oil there. That's the biggest lease there ever was. They pay millions of dollars, you know, for them leases. But for 10 years. It going to take ten years I guess. But that place was so rugged, they couldn't get the oil out, you know, ship it out. But I think that is going to really ruin our oil. What little we're getting. I think that is going to bring ours down.

Mrs. Green: That's what is bringing ours down (Osage name). (Osage name), our good leases are going out of here. Some is in Africa and different countries. They're getting for cheap.

Mrs. Maker: Yeah.

Mrs. Green: And over it Ponca City in Kay County. I got land over there.

Mrs. Maker: I think that the tribe ought to get some way. Get somebody that--You know this oil business is a big business, you know. And they ought to get somebody in that oil commission of Oklahoma. They don't know what goes on, you know. Why I always think they ought to get somebody. But, you know, that state they ain't going to let the Osages get the big chance again. We still fighting these white people over this oil. And I think they all should try to get a man in there. But, you know, they won't let us get someone in there. They're the ones that's got control over this oil in Oklahoma. I always think they ought to ship it up to Kansas. We get better prices up there. They get so tied up with these big companies and that's how they control our oil and all our land.
