

Oh, I like them except one. Her name is Mrs. Brewster. That's the only one I remember.

(Was she an older lady?)

Yea, an older lady. She got after me, she whipped me one time. I was standing at the blackboard writing notes. She caught me.

(Oh, you wrote notes?)

To another girl. I was telling her what we were going to do after school. I took music lessons there too. Piano.

(Do you play now?)

Yea. We had a music teacher.

(Were all of the teachers women?)

Yea.

(Were they all white?)

Yea.

(Were all of the students Indian?)

Um-uhm (Yes)

(What tribes did they students represent?)

Choctaw, and Creek, and Seminoles, Kiowas, and Comanches, Cheyennes, and Arapahos. No Apaches.

(What language did most of the students speak?)

English.

(Did they speak this to each other?)

Uh-hum. (Yes.)

(Did they ever talk in their native languages?)

No.

(Did you know how to write English before you came?)
