

They not used to be cranky. That's cause she's nervous.

(Yeah.)

I'm nervous myself, but I've had this old sinus on my head ever since my boy died, and I tell you, that's been killing me, I think.

(Over your eyes hurts?)

Yes.

Unidentified voice: See, them is the only one I got-- Susan Hunt.

(Uh-huh.)

Dolly: There ain't nothing much, is there?

Unidentified voice: Mmmm-hmmm. (Laughter) Maybe, end too one of these days.

Is she out of the old home now?

Unidentified voice: She's still in there yet.

Aunt Susie is home, is she?

Unidentified voice: Mmmm-hmmm.

(Did they put her in the home for awhile?)

Mmmm-hmmm.

(After we talked to her that time?)

Mmmm-hmmm.

(I wonder why?)

They did that, I get so mad at her so much.

Unidentified voice: They said Lucie got cancer though, I don't know.

I sure hope not.

Unidentified voice: Yeah, that's what I say. That's what Don said too.

(Well, listen, I guess we better go, but, Dolly, I sure appreciate talking to you. And, maybe next time I come, we can sit down and talk a long time.)

Yeah.

(I'll come early.)
