

(Yeah.)

Old Tom Hawkins barbecued the meat and he had this fry bread down there. And everybody really tasted that meat.

(Yeah.)

They got after him though because he sliced that barbecued meat. They tasted the meat and he cooked it. He was a real barbecue man. He had this old brass kettle. I would hold about 100 gallons. Indians borrowed it someimmes to use at their camp meetings.

(Well.)

MORE ABOUT TOM HAWKINS

And he drew. He got two thousand dollars. If he'd been on the roll why he'd got lot of money on the deal. (Sentence not clear.) down east of Stuartville, Arkansas. I took him to Stuartville visit his folks. He had a brother over a hundred years old. He had a sister with the prettiest hair. Come way down past her hips. You could tell that she was part Indian. His brother, Sam, about (static--sentence not clear).

(Yeah. A hundred gallon brass kettle.)

Had his money hidden in this big old bed post. They had to dig.

(Yeah.)

That thing would unscrew and they had their money hid in there. Well, when they finally settled up. Pat got two thousand dollars. He told me why he didn't get anymore. I guess they didn't want to give him some of it.

(I guess so.)

(tape skip)

DELAWARES STILL HAVE STOMP DANCES

(Do the Delawares still have their meetings during the summer and stomp dance?)

Yeah, they have some dances out here. Well, its east of the old Trent farm. North of Copan.
