Indian Institute University of Oklahoma

Apache Ben Cheletsin, Life History Matls.

JULIA A. JORDAN

Rose Chaletsin, Kiowa-Apache 6-30-64 (Notes taken by John Mead)

I didn't know much about him before I married him. But I know him when I married him. I live with him about 20 some years, 1932-1956. I know him well between then. I know him before that just here and there. He's been in business long time. When I was a little girl, we got his picture here at the old agency, when he worked as Indian police. He's a big man, tall, 6'l".

His mother was Apache, but his father was Lipan and Mexican. I don't know what part of Old Mexico. Them Lipan lived in Old Mexico, and then came to New Mexico. They like them mountains, them people. Sometime he talks about way back. He don't hardly talk about his people. I tried to find out hos his father married into the tribe. These people way back, they go back and forth. The Apaches were in the Black Hills, and then they drifted down to somewheres in Nebraska. The Apache go back and forth, the warpath, you see. That's where his folks come down over here. His father was just a young boy. Nebraska is where his folks married, his old man married an Apache woman. His (Ben's father) folks left him, and he got into this tride. He said it was in Nebraska. They keep coming down this way. After the Treaty of Medicine Lodge they drifted into Oklahoma.

This old man, Apache Ben's father, he was left there with the trice. Then he carried this Apache woman, after the Medicine Lodge Treaty. That's what he (Ben) said. Then they come back to Kansas. He (Ben) was a little boy. He didn't know nothing till he come back to Oklahoma. He was a good sized man when he got to work with the office as Indian police. He was about 35, a good grown man. Put he wasn't carried yet. But his sister was older than him. I think he's got 4-5 of them and his brother, younger brother.

His father, they called him Kladie, this office. In the white man name was Aprobe Black. His Indian name was Indiani. That is a Lipan / pache year. It seems like you going to hide so ecody somewhere in the weeds, in the timber what here, in the grass, he always does that. He died--let me think--I was there when he died.

1904, if I am not mistaken. He was over 100 years old. They said he died to le a big fellow, but he just shrunk up. He is buried at the Creke Create ission conetary, but not where Ben is turied.

His mother, she's called ' (a host for short, or 's recularly in the long way. It's like you're telling a storm necus senctedly, that's the mention of x that word. She was full blood Apache. I don't know who her father was.

The old man got some brothers this other way. Kindie, Oprobe affand, not some from ters. live at Mescalero, and a bister. Therefore denal. Fast they not so a creating that he fliving in Mescarelo (hose promitteer Mescalero has 'Mescarelo'), a color to blone relations. But Ben's distor's aparthers are living. Fee his to the heldren.

Ben's nother died in 1979, tofare the old run. Just right after ellowers. It's right in there some place. He (Len) don't outle thatened may this case, but it's carly after allotment. Due I don't know how old, but it's practy old. I was too arail. I saw the old man, but I didn't know the old lady. They was laving at Cement. They all live there where the town is now. When the eld run's wife dies, they brok ht him over here to his granddodinter. They take ours of his. That's where he died.