

it in the full word...they cut it too short. Sometime they talk so fast you can't understand what they talking about. And they give us peyote meetings ever night...singing, dancing, like that.

(What was her name?)

"Sama-pia." And then I said, I told them everything about them. And this man that ask me questions I said, "...funny word to him...I said, "So maybe you my uncle or my grandfather." I told him that. And they all laugh. And so we stayed there two months and then we went on to Utah. And then when we got over there, they just talk exactly like you...us. They don't talk fast...they talk easy, slow, and they say every word like us.

(Which people are the people in Utah?)

They're the ones that....can't think of their names right now.

(Do you remember what town they lived around?)
