

than to go on, and there's no telling how long it'll take. It'll go on forever, I guess because---20 years. It takes a long time to get justice for Indians, you know. But not too long for the other people. According to what you got in it, you see. I've never been satisfied with our solicitors up here, you know. They're luke warm to all the things that we should want. The kind of people that I think that we should get to represent us on the solicitors level is somebody that is real aggressive that wants to get up and get something done for the people.

(Another thing, too, that in the annual report, as I understand it, was that the Corps of Engineers had offered some partial settlement on the Kaw Dam Reservoir and the Council was advised to accept that. That was the way I look at it. I don't know how much they offered as a partial settlement, but could we have taken that partial settlement and accepted it some way and drilled some wells?)

There's only 160 acres, Leonard, for the claims that they're taking our of the ground and putting it into the court about the dam. One of the councilmen recently, I don't want to mention right who he is, but he fully insulted Mr. Pinky up there that day, and he just almost refused to talk any more about it. The reason that I don't want to mention his name now is that I think that we will have a lawsuit pending in the future in regards to this dam. One thing that we have found out recently, and it's always my contention that the Indian owns the water rights. And I have talked to Mr. Beaters who is in Washington, and he is the head solicitor water rights for Indian people. He says that although the Indian has sold the land, they have never sold
