

going to the meeting Sunday.

Unidentified voice: Who was that?

Alice: Mary had called Ted, and she called me to tell me what she said. Then, Tessie was going to call everybody that she could. Now, that's what they think. They think that they won't be notified that Paul has died, and that they would get him on the absentee ballots. We had these two calls from California last night. They're calling everyone that they know. Most of the Osages know one another or in the vicinity, and if those that don't will be at that meeting (words not clear).

I'm going to have to call Muskogee. Ya'll hear about the prospective chief's wife been in the penitentiary? I'm guardian for my brother and I have to make my report Friday. I haven't had time. I'm going to call Joe Wallace and ask him for an extention, I say if they say Indian or Chief to me, my stomach kinda turns over. (Laughter) or cook book. That thing just made me sick.

We was waiting for the letter, and when we got it, I was laughing about how they started it out and how spiteful and little petty, it was. When we got to old man Whitehorn, it just made me sick because the poor old soul--we know Mr. Whitehorn and sometimes he goes off on tangents and this and that, but he was sincere in his desire to help Vess. When they came the other evening, well, I answered the phone all day. I run around here looking like this until after they left. They went to Hominy. Lottie came and tell the old man that she's real upset because they wasn't going appoint him for chief. I had to fix supper. He went to the Agency so they quoted the law to him. I
