

COMMENTS ON OLD CANTONMENT AGENCY, SCHOOL, ETC.

--they used to have camps over here.

(What was the name of this creek?)

They used to call it Cantonment. Cantonment Creek.

(And you say there's a spring over here?)

There's a spring way up there. On the west end there, there's a spring.

(Does that spring have a name?)

No, it's just all Cantonment. But this spot never had a name. There's mostly Cheyennes that lived there. Now up this way--this road.

* * *

(Right over there by that little tree?)

Yeah, that tree. That was Arapaho Church.

(What was the name of it?)

It was Mennonite. And then over there they had Kingsley's house and then over here they had a house for a Mr. Thompson. He was a farmer. And then on the other side of Kingsley's house was that store of Abernathy. And that school was over there where that thing is.

(Was it a government school?)

Government school. I went to school there. And this used to be the Indian Office. Yeah. And now see how it looks now. It used to be the Indian Office. Oh, I didn't know it burned!

(Was this an Agency?)

Yeah, it was an Agency. Used to be the Office. And over here that's where all them barn and cow sheds--they were all built over here, all along here. And over this way, down that way, south, that's where there was a cabin there. Big long--you know, them straight white oaks? There was about six or eight families lived there. We lived on the west side. On here. And that's where
