

(Those must have been interesting and wonderful days.)

They were. Our class was the largest class.

(What year was that?)

1903 in June.

(1903.)

I believe it was the first of June, but I forgot, but it was in 1903.

And of our class, there was only three of us left.

(Well.)

Myself and Ed Hicks, you know. You've heard.

(Yes.)

His daughter, Janie Hicks. And she married Greer Harnage. You know the Harnages?

(Oh, yes.)

You remember he was killed this year? Her mother and Jane were up at Claremore visiting and she had married to Greer Harnage. They were starting home that morning. I think it was on--

(I read about him. Let's see then. You and Janey. Who is the other one?)

Eula Morgan.

(Eula Morgan. Yes.)

She lives at...down at Ardmore. And I think her name is Mathews.

Janey Hicks and myself and the Morgan--Bette was in our class, but she's been dead about two years. And Morgan girl is still living.

RECALLS SEVERAL PROMINENT EARLY DAY SETTLERS

(Do you recall anything about the very prominent family of Chambers?)

Yes. There's quite a...There's a Keith Chambers. And he married a Starr. And this Keith Chambers then had two sons. Joe Chambers.

(Yes.)

Claude Chambers. They were brothers. And then Mr. Keith Chambers had a brother, Will Chambers. And he had a son that was Tuck Chambers.
