

(Are there any stories about any of those battles that were fought with the Caddos?)

Yes, there are several stories.

(Did your grandmother or someone ever tell you any of those stories that you could tell us about?)

Oh yes, uhuh.

(Battles in the war?)

Yes.

(OK, why don't you just pick a story that your grandmother told you and we'll record it.)

Well, I'd have to think about because I've got them all written in my book.

(Oh, you do?)

Uhuh. I've got them written in Indian and I'd have to translate them.

(Oh, you would?)

As I said, I've got a lot of typing to do. That's what I've got to do.

(Well, uh--o tape off for a while.)

(Was this before the Civil War?)

Yes. Uhuh, because most of them from what I understand had French names and so on. And then of course, when they went into Mexico, and those that were interested because they were a very religious race of people. In fact my grandpa was a deacon as early as that.

(What sort of church was he a deacon of?)

Well, he was a Catholic. They all went to 1st. McGill there in Texas. In various different denominations. Well, see in Coronados time. See he discovered them. That was way back. They didn't happen to do anything to them. They just talked. There was a Caddo that spoke Spanish. There were out on a hunt and they just asked them and there happened to be one of them that could happen to speak Spanish
