

Yeah.

(But I couldn't find none.)

There is this one fellow at Okemah, he preached here one Sunday or four Sundays, and he told me that, well, I knowed there is some back down, east of that corner store.

(Yeah.)

And then back south.

(Yeah.)

There is an old graveyard, there is just a little bit but there is some. But the leaves are kinda yellow, and some of them are bright red, you know.

(Yeah.)

And he'll tell you to come back over there, and we would go over and see.

(Ah-hum)

I know where there is a whole lot of them of them thing, it's a kind of root from a (not clear) found in Sulpulpa--over at Drumwright, I went up to Drumwright. And I started working up from, work from right on and back to Sapulpa.

(Yeah.)

Down that pipeline, it was scattered down, along side that pipeline.

(Well.)

Guess it was about that high.

(Yeah.)

One old fellow used to go over there and dig them.

(Ah-hum)

I think it was about a mile, maybe 2 miles over on the highway, and then on north.

(Yeah.)
