

(Yeah, a bunch of old home place.)

The old home place where I was raised.

(Yeah.)

Well, my dad bought Redbird Sixkiller's farm and this was an old place, way before the civil war.

(Hum)

It was an old place. Made by the Childers.

(Hum)

Childers. And it was, a log house, a double log house.

(Yeah)

Now a hallway in the middle and the log was 18 x 20. The room was.

(Hum)

That was a pretty good size -- .

(That was a big house, for that day and age?)

It was.

(Yes, it was.)

It was log, and it was one story.

(Yeah, what was your daddy's name?)

Henry.

(Henry, that's right,)

Henry Ross. And the ceiling wasn't very high.

(Huh).

Room up above, you know.

(Yeah)

Ladder, where there was. I remember when dad moved there he had a stairway.

(Ah-hum. Now Redbird Sixkiller, was he an old man then, when you remember him?)
