

(Those schools like that up there at Chilocco, and Haskell, Carlisle, did they, I don't know about your tribe, it's just like when we send some of our boys up there, sometimes they didn't like it too well, and some of them did, you know? And seems like that Carlisle was a little too far for some of them. Course, some of them stayed, you know. Some of them didn't like it and come on home, you know. We didn't have too many that went to Carlisle in our tribe. Did you, you seen this Jim Thorpe, huh?)

Yeah, uh-huh. Yeah, we had a printer boss there from another print shop. He come from Carlisle. He knows Jim well, you know. When he, that's the reason I got the chance to see him cause he come to see his friend, you know. That printer boss used to be printer boss at Carlisle. He was printer boss at Chilocco. And he came in the printing shop to see him, you know, cause he knew him. That's how I got a chance to see him when he came in the printer shop. (Laughter) He shook hands with all of us course he didn't know us.

(Did you ever see Jim Thorpe perform or anything?)

Huh-uh, huh-uh, never did.

(You met him though?)

Yeah. I've heard about him. That printer shop boss used to tell us about him, you know, how he plays. But I never did see him, but I saw him when he come to see the printer boss while I was at the shop.

(Well, he come up to Chilocco, huh, Jim Thorpe?)

Yeah, uh-huh. When I heard about him, you know, all he can do. And, boy, he's big. Yet, he can run a hundred yards in so, so many seconds, you know, and hurdle, and run hurdle, and run and everything. (Laughter) But he can do it. He did it.
