

(Several of the England families scatter through that country, I've found out.)

Well, you know they didn't even know this little girl was here.

(Well.)

They can't even call what kin, it was. So somebody must of --

(Some of the was probably so old, that the records is lost to -- )

Even today.

(Before it was ever started.)

There is some that is buried down there, we don't even know who they are.

(not clear) Somebody must have made a mistake, and went there.

(Oh there's been all kinds of thing nas happen, in the growth and development of this area through here. Ah --)

(not clear) Are you gonna sell this book?

(What!)

(Not clear) Are you gonna sell books?

(Yes, ma'm.)

There is some more graves that you haven't got into. There is some more cemetery. Well, I said. I now I'm gonna copy them, you know.

(Yes, ma'm.)

And ah,

(Oh, by the way, the Old Todd place, was that your people Indian allotment, there? That is what I figured.)

That is what they call, it used to be years and years ago, then old Hudson farm. Where the Hudson used to have a store there. Now I guess they lived there, anyhow. It was the Todd allotment. And they named that lake down there. The Todd lake, down there. They name that after him, I was trying to remember. Somebody can't stand up.
