

(The Todds, Sparkman.)

The Todds older than the, Sparkman.

(They would be probably be the first ones then?)

I don't know, what the Hudson's name is. I don't remember now they were the one. And the Todds, John Todd was his name. James Todd and then John Todd was his son. James Todd was the father. And John Todd was his son. And they all helped the Indian allotment, you know.

(Ah-huh)

And lets see Ellison is pretty old, too.

(Ah-huh)

Got another family down in there too.

(Did the community, north there have, ah, what they call Williams Cole Creek? I mean, yeah back out here rather. As near as I can determine that was originally an Indian Community, itself.)

I can tell you, how you can find out a lot more than I can tell you on that. Is Clumy Norman.

(I know him. I believe I know who that is.)

Or Mr. Reed, Clyde Reed. Because his wife is buried there. And now they can tell you more about it than I could. Because I'm from down in around Fairland and Hudson Creek down in there. They live up here of course connected with the family, see.

(Ah-huh).

But, they could tell you more. I can tell you an old settler that lives is the Essex, too. Art Essex I don't know what his dad name was. E-s-s-e-x.

(Ah-huh)

(not clear) Everyone of those.

(Yeah, yeah. They are mighty fine folks.

Born and raised out there. Mother lived just a mile, up right what we call the track.
