

one at each end.

(Well.)

(Interruption)

She'd pray in perfect English--pray the most beautiful prayer you ever heard.

(Well.)

Oh, she was wonderful.

(What was her name?)

Before she married? Paul, I mean, she was Paul Phipps' mother.

(Yeah.)

I don't know what she was before--

(I never did hear, that's how come me to ask.)

(Yeah, Paul Phipps was quite a prominent man in his day.)

He was a good man.

(Yes, he was. He was a smart Indian too.)

Yeah.

(He done a lot of good in his time.)

He sure did.

(He gave a lot of himself and his time and--)

A SHOOTING AT COLCORD

Eskie, Eskie, Eskie, Eliza Eskie that was his wife's name. Well, they're quite a bit Indian.

(Yeah.)

And according to that Mammie Eskie, she was a good-looking gal. And he went--I can't seem to remember but she was a step-daughter, yeah, well she--her husband is named Steele, John Steele. Old John is just a good old cowboy-sort of a fella. I knew John well. Well, old Tom got to messing
