

a den room and a living room and a dining room and a small--there's a bath. And a bedroom and kitchen. And they had a carport on the--something that looked like barn carport on the south side of the house. And they had a little old porch with just steps on it. I didn't like it. I just didn't like the house.

Jordan: Do they just have one kind of house, that you could--

Irene: Well, I guess maybe they--well, they showed me that house and I didn't want it. The way I look at it, they wanted me to use their plans. I didn't know that. I went to Oklahoma City and had my plans already marked out. The man was willing to build a house. I wanted a fourteen thousand dollar house right there in town. They said I didn't have any--the lot didn't have that much value on it. Where the railroad track runs--on this side (east of the tracks), it has no value. But west of the railroad tracks on the other way was higher value, in town.

Jordan: Then that's just the location--?

Irene: Just the location, yeah.

Jordan: East of the railroad tracks.

Irene: Yeah. It's closer to Sequoyah Mills, though, and the Fairgrounds.

Jordan: Where did you get your plans in Oklahoma City?

Irene: It's some Howard--I don't remember the name of it. I don't remember names or-- Jordan: Well, how did you hear about it?

Irene: Well, this man come over there and wanted to build a house for me. He said, "Well, I'll take you to Oklahoma City and we can get some plans." I didn't know--I just couldn't get no loan and I try to get it--I was thinking about getting a loan from the V.A. I didn't even know whether they would give me a loan or anything like that. See, if I did get a loan in the Agency, see,
