

(How many guys usually played on the drum?)

Oh, I don't know how many anybody that wanted to sing could sing.

(Was this just Apaches or were other tribes there?)

Oh there were different tribes, Kiowa, Apache, Comanche, anybody could beat the drum.

(The dances were open to everyone?)

Yes.

(Did the Apache and Kiowa get along real well at that time?)

Yeah----they got along pretty good.

(They never had any trouble?)

No.

(What kind of medicine did they use then?)

Oh, I don't know.

(Did they have herbs and stuff?)

Oh, some people used them, I guess, I don't know.

(You never used them?)

No.

PEYOTE

No I never used any.

(Were there any doctors then?)

Yeah, Indian doctors. They doctored. But they all passed away some of them.

All the old men. People passed away. Some of them were good doctors. They had an Indian doctor.

(Do you remember the names of any of them?)

No, uh-huh. That's way back.

(Well, how did they treat their patients?)

Oh, I don't know, but they get them well. I don't know what they do, pray give them some medicine I guess.
