

(Where there's work to be done. Who's your teacher at Harrison school when you were going to school there? Do you remember?)

Well, I think, I know who my first teacher was, was Oakley Ross. She was a Sanders, but she's dead and gone now. And my second grade teacher was Florence Bailey and she lives way off over yonder across the street and Bud Leachum lives over there.

(Yes ma'm.)

And that was way back yonder in '04 and '05 (1904 and 1905).

(Yes ma'm. That would be quite awhile ago then.)

Sure was.

FARM PRODUCTS-MAKING MOLASSES

(Are there still some Indians living though down through here? Isn't there? I noticed several people that looked like they're Indian folks. No, I would have liked to see this country when it was all in farming. It must have been real pretty.)

Well, it was. Seem like in World War I every foot of this country was in cultivation.

(Well.)

Mostly in cotton and corn. People raised their own gardens and truck patches.

(Yes ma'm.)

Made their own molasses.

(Do they still make molasses like they did in the old days? I can remember when my dad used to go get sorghum molasses from the mill.

But I haven't seen any in many years now. I don't know where you could even find it anymore.)

Well I don't--I wouldn't know where you could find anymore either.
