

married to.

(Do you know if his wife is Indian?)

She's a Cherokee, I think.

(And what about Florence?)

Florence, she's got four kids.

(And who is her husband?)

Her husband is Grant Miller. He's Arapaho. Two boys and two girls.

(O.K. What about Louise?)

She ain't got nothing.

KINSHIP TERMS AND BEHAVIOR

(I guess that takes care of Sitting Bulls. Now, you remember your grandfather Sitting Bull?)

Yeah.

(Did you used to call him by name or would you call him by "grandfather"?)

Grandpa.

(In Arapaho what would that be?)

ne be si.wa

(Before I go on, is that all the kids that Sitting Bull had?)

Yeah, that's all that I know.

(What I was curious about, you said you didn't like to talk about him because he had a lot of wives and a lot of kids--I just wondered if there was any feeling among the Arapahoes about having a whole bunch of kids or if you were just kidding, or what?)

I was just kidding! (laughs)

(Well, in Arapaho you'd call him ne be si.wa ?)

Yeah.

(Would that be when you're talking right to him?)

Yeah.
