

gotten. The words that he express himself with his family will always echo. We're here for many years to come. With a grandson here, Rhoda, she's here with the little boy as if Glen was present. But as we say we know God gives and he also emphasize He'll take. And we know He has the control of life--- the breath that you and I breathe. The law that He has laid down for you and I will make it possible that we've seen many years, like Glen. His desires was good. His sympathy went long ways. Mrs. Bill Rainbull, will you please come and shake hands. If there's any Ponca woman present, step up and shake hands and receive a gift. (To a recipient--"Shake hands with the little boy.") All right, we have on here. Ruth Orange, you're also asked to come and shake hands. The little boy here, we call him Keith, and I've had lot of words with him, talk, and try to advise him for what was good for his future. I thought lot of this little boy here, we call him Keith, and I've had lot of words with him, talk, and try to advise him for what was good for his future. I thought lot of this little boy--I and Glen-- and he had his time coming over here that I want to do something for my grandfather and I'm going to give a present to the announcer, Saul Birdshead. I thank you, Keith. And Rhoda would like to pledge twenty-five dollars to May Goggles from Wyoming. (Jess has walked over the speakers stand and waited a turn.) Myrtle Linvoln, giving recognition of William Redcherries. Myrtle Lincoln fell off her shade over there, I think, and hurt her leg--couldn't be here. Just did get here for the special this afternoon. Karen Little Coyote, you're asked to come and shake hands--if she's not here, will someone acknowledge the gift. In behalf of William Redcherries who as we all know lost his life here accidentally a year ago--his sister here is giving recognition and asking Amanda Bates to come and shake hands--with the sister. Pete Moore, you're asked to come and shake hands also, on behalf of William
