

uncle. I stayed with my uncle and Evelyn was so big but she remember that we went through there on a wagon. We went to visit some folks and we went through there. And coming back that was my first and last time that I ever been there. And I don't know how many years back back it's been. And I never have hardly go places to know a lot of things. That's how come when they gonna talk I always just think well if they was to ask me how I'm gonna tell them. What am I gonna tell them because we're not the type that was raised like that. And I don't know where she ever learned about this dancing. And she's, she's just crazy bout dancing.

INDIAN DANCES:

But my boy used to dance. He's the first, the first few Indian boys that ever learned to go round dances. And he's the first Indian boy, Kiowa boy that ever learned how to hoop dance. And that was him. He, he won a lot of prizess up towards, ah, El Paso and Santa Fe and Arizona. Among them Navajos.

(What's your boys' name?)

David.

(Does the whoop dance belong to the Kiowa or did they get it from some other tribe?)

No, it belongs to ah, I don't know where they learned it but it came from the Navajos. He leared it from a Navajo boy. And he dances with ah, he first started out with two whoops them round hoops. He dance with two of em and later three and then he end up with four. And that's the time he ah, it's really interesting. And he ah, he use four hoops and after that, that's the time he went in the Navy. Then from there on he never did. He trying his best to teach his little boys but I don't know whether they'll, they're the type. They're not like he is you know. He'll take part on anything. He's just like Evelyn. He's friendly to everybody even though he don't know. them. Well he'll carry on just like he know everybody real well. And ah, I don't know whether them boys will ever learn to ah dance or any! He dances too. He dances war dances too, my boy does.
