

(Yeah, I guess we talked about that yesterday, too. Did I get grandfather? What if you're calling your mother's father?)

nε b έ si.w ú

(Again?)

nε b έ si.w ú

(And if you're talking about him to someone else?)

nε b έ si.baehae

(And what about their sisters and brothers--would you call them by the same thing?)

Yeah, same thing. Everything's the same.

(What if you're talking about all of your grandmothers--?)

nei.w ú h w' w

(And if you're talking about all of your grandfathers, what would you say?)

nε b έ si.w ú h w' w

(Is there a word, 'neθ w b w ?)

Well, when you telling him, your brother-in-law, something--you say

neθ w b w

Like I would say "neθ w b w", look at this one."

(What if you're talking about all of his brothers, how would you say it?)

ne'ε bih ú That "-h w'" always come in.

(Now if it was a man and he was talking to one of his wife's sisters, how would he tell her something?)

neθ w b w

(And if he's talking about his wife's sister to someone else, how would he refer to her?)
