

(What kind of games did you like to play when you were a little girl?)

Oh, it's hard to explain what we used to play. It was lots of Indian games. It's hard to explain them. Sometimes I can't explain. How you want to put it on--the words you know. I can't explain it, but there was lots of Indian games. If I had an Interpreter but--

(Is there any one you could tell me about?)

I don't know.

(Well what about that one you were telling me about when they put horns on the end of the stick?)

That was in my mother's day. She still had them two horns. They used to put sticks in them. They threw them on the ice, in the winter time.

The one that goes farthest is the winner. And they used to kick ball.

I used to try it when I was a little girl. I couldn't do it, I was too dumb. I guess, but my cousin used to--I don't know how many times she used to kick it. And they say that some womans used to kick it 100 times or over 100 times. They had a swing theme. They had it at powwow one time. It goes around. I know it's name but I guess I forgot it.

CHEYENNE GOURD CLAN SOCIETY:

(What about the gourd Clan Society of the Cheyennes? )

They just dance. They have gourds make out of tin can. They put rocks in there and shake it.

(How come they don't use gourds?)

They got two different kind dances over there. One they call Blackfeet and they carry sticks and they put them animals, what do you call them--otter--that kind of fur. They put feathers on, they dance with them.
