

He came in here, and he use to be an interpreter of- and his name is on many document. And he also worked as a blacksmith for Quapaws. And he was allotted in their allotment.

(Did he get an Shawnee allotment, too?)

No!

(Oh, just Quapaw.)

Just that one.

(This conclude the interview with Clyde Bluejacket, Chief of the Eastern Shawnee. The date is May 5, 1971.)