

(Did you all have a house at that time--you and your husband?)

No, we didn't have no house.

(Now was this before World War II?)

Yeah.

(Before your boys went into the service?)

Yeah.

(About what time would you start--if you camped all winter--about what month would you start?)

We used to move in in November. We used to all move to a place where there was a lot of timber for windbreak.

(And about how long would you stay?)

Till April.

(Then where would you go in April?)

We'll go to a place where--we camp where my husband used to work. We used to go--

(Then, really, you were living in a tent most of the year?)

Yeah. Most of the time we lived in a tent. All my kids have been babies in a tent. None of them were born in the house. Not even in a hospital.

(Would you ever have more than one tent?)

Well, just me and my husband and kids would have one tent.

ARBORS

(Would you ever have an arbor, like in the summer time or something like that?)

Oh, yeah. We used to have arbors.

(What were they like?)

Well, like those you see at the pow-wow--that kind.

(They were flat on top?)
