

Yeah, flat. Willows on top.

(Who would fix the arbor?)

Well, the men used to fix them.

(Did your boys ever help?)

They were too small to help their father, but when they got old enough they used to help.

(Did you ever help cut willows or anything?)

Yeah, I used to help cut them. I've done everything under the sun.

(Worked real hard?)

I've worked hard all my life.

(Well, in a winter camp, would you have an arbor at that time?)

No.

(Just for the summer?)

Just for summer.

(Let's say this is your camp for the summer--I suppose you always have your tent facing east?)

Yeah.

(Do you ever remember a time when you'd have it face some other way besides east?)

I never did face my tent no other way but east. That's the only way.

(Then where would your arbor be from the front door of your tent?)

(So you'd just step out the front door of your tent and you'd be in your shade?)

Yeah, I'd be under my shade.

(Sort of like it is at the pow-wows now?)

Yeah.
