

take you." So what is the use of being jealous? It only causes trouble if anybody is jealous. I never did know of anybody being jealous. I know my husband wasn't jealous and I wasn't jealous. He didn't care who I danced with and he didn't care who I talked to, and I didn't care who he talked to. That way you get along. But this jealousy is trouble.

(How about today--are people still that way, or do you think there's any jealousy today?)

There ain't no jealousy. I don't know who would be jealous. These woman --just the first man they run into, they go with him, and then the next one and the next one--so they ain't no chance for anybody to be jealous. No chance of it. I don't know--I don't know of anybody being jealous.

(Can you think of any more of those songs?)

I just can't think of them. I was singing them in the row last night, and my goodness, I lose them all. I wish I had a recorder last night. I was laying here just singing them just right after another, and I can't even think of the song--the starting song.

(Was there a regular song they had for a starting song?)

Oh, they used to sing one song first. And I like it. And I can't think of it.

(What about quitting--did they have any special song they sang to quit?)

No, they didn't have no quitting song. They quit whenever they got tired dancing. They didn't have just a special time to quit. They just keep dancing, and then that get tired would quit, and maybe some more of them, be dancing.

SNAKE DANCE AND BUFFALO DANCE

(When did this Snake Dance and Buffalo Dance come in?)

I don't know--long time, I guess. I don't know--since the pow-wows I
