

(What was your teacher's name?)

When I first went to school, the teacher's name was Mrs. Evans.

Before I went to open range I went to another (Interrupted). That's Edmond down there. (Not clear)

(You're ninety, ma'm?)

Ninety-one. You were ninety-three then, weren't you?

No, I was eight years old.

Oh, eight, (not clear) it was eighty-two years ago.

She was eight years older than Jo Anna.

Almost eight years.

(Do you recall the name of Wooster?)

Yeah, there was a Wooster.

They were missionaries.

That was before I went.

I had a write up--in that school--and the next was Leapers.

Leapers, yes, married that Leaper's girl, over there.

(Did she live there at the mission?)

We went there to Sunday School and church.

Did you live there at the mission?

(Mary Russell--words not clear)

He didn't live here.

Just the missionaries lived there at the mission. Missionaries lived in the parsonage.

Grandma still talks about those good biscuits they had there.

Old (not clear) going back East.

She's going back East to tell about it, you know.

Yeah.
