

Went there with my mother's. She went there to sell something and I tagged along. I didn't know what she had to sell, but I went along with her.

My girl was born the year before, well, the year around 1845. Charles was born in 1846. He was 17 years old when he was killed.

Yeah, I got that in my head.

(Did you hear the story of how it started?)

Sir?

(Did you hear the story of how the fire started?)

We heard that Lewis McClain was smoking his pipe. And old man was perfect silly, I reckon he was, that's what they say. He was smoking a pipe and dropped a coal of fire. And that's the way they said it started. Ella, how did you hear it got burned? I heard Old Lewis McClain was smoking a pipe.

I wouldn't doubt it. I never did hear that. (Words not clear)

Un-hum, in that old book yonder. It is registered there.

He didn't see it. It slipped down. And I got the Library and the Capital. (Speaking of pictures of the Library and Capital.) Yeah. And when they wrote this book, they come out and got the pictures from me. They borrowed them. They returned them though. But they didn't put the Capital in, I didn't find it 'til afterwards. I didn't send it.

(Which one is your brother and your sister?)

No, I believe not.

I don't know who's got one of those books.

Do you get the Indian paper? You don't get the Indian paper?

No, I never had subscribed to it before. I just get it when I go and borrow one.

I got one yesterday.

What did it have in it this time?

We were gone quite awhile.

I seen Fannie May looking at it last night.. I guess she left it. Excuse me. (Next sentence irrelevant.)
