

or four other names. By another tribe.

(These are interesting books here.)

Yeah. These are old books that come out in the early days. I guess you got them in your library.

(Yeah, but they're hard to get.)

I'll try to get one of grandpa's or ginal pictures. I think after his step-daughter died, those picture were given to his step-daughter and his step-daughter gave them to Robert Anko and Robert Anko when he died I think his children got them and I'll see them. If they got it, I'll get it.

That's the same picture though. But he says it's a Comanche. After I give you your picture you'll recognize it.

(Have you ever heard a story about a buffalo with silver horns?J)

Yes.

(Could you tell me that story some time?)

That's a long story. I'll tell you next time you come. That's a real story. It's a real story. I gave a little bit of it in Denver, Colorado when we had that Philosophical Meetings about where the Indian came from. And why and where the dead goes--big philosophical conference. And lot of those different tribes gave their view of INdian life and all that's very interesting, but they're making a book out of that and it'll come out pretty soon, I think. I have--did I ever show you those pictures that came out when we was attending that conference? I don't know whether I did or not, but I'll go see if I can find them.
