

Right there where little Stecker town is. You just go about half a mile to the corner of the road on the east and go one mile. And she lives right in there. A mile and a quarter, I think it is. First house on the east side of the road. It's the second house from the corner you turned on going south. They living there. She'll probably remember the making of this, because she married Domebo's--who made this, did you say?

(Alice told me that her brother, Andy, made it.)

Andy? Well, she's married to Andy. Blanche is married to Andy. And she might clear it. Because, I don't know what kind of memory she has, but she had a whole lot to do with it. I'm losing a lot of my memory. I can't remember what I used to.

(Now this one, I think you told me about that--girl shot at Rainy Mountain by accident.)

That's not a girl--that's a grown woman. Clyde Ahtape's mother. It's the only woman that got killed there.

FIGHT BETWEEN JIM TAKONE AND PEA-DAH (DRAWING NO. 99)

(Now this one here--"Jim Takone and Pea-dah fight at Red Stone"-- (Drawing No. 99)

Pea-dah (pide) fight at Redstone Church. He said the fight came over for nothing. Jim Takone has not got him hired, but he lives with him. And he was kind of off, Pea-dah. Jim Takone used him as a slave. Buys his tobacco and clothes and work him. And at the camp there--there was a big camp meeting camp, and they was camped there. Jim Takone sent Pea-dah to the well after water and he carried him out about two or three buckets and I don't know what Jim do with the water, but he told him to go back for some more water. And that old man said No, and they got to quarreling and he give him a bucket and he just barely go over and come back and I think he spilled the water and made Jim mad. He run up there and jump on him and they fought
