

Porfolio. That's all I could remember. Porfolio--it's Mexican. (possibly Porfirio?)

(Did your folks have any name that they called this brother?)

No. They just call him grandpa's brother.

(Do you know your mother's father's name?)

Well, that was--her father was--I have that from the office but I don't know whether I could pick it up, now. I can get it from the office.

(What about your mother's mother--do you remember her name?)

Yes. I'll get it from the office--it's long and I can't pronounce it. I'll get it for next time. I have it somewhere but I can't find it.

KINSHIP BEHAVIOR: GUY'S MOTHER'S MOTHER

(Do you remember your mother's father or your mother's mother? Were they living while you were?)

Yes. It was grandma that took me to my first Thanksgiving, at the Kiowa School. Way back there, about 1890. My mother's mother. Yes, and she took me up there and she was about seventy-five then and she could outwalk anybody then. People them days walk long ways--old. She used to take me visiting about almost ten miles to a neighbor's over there, from Mears, the creek to Nellie's father's community camp. (Nellie's father was Hunting Horse). And we walk all the way.

(What is Nellie's father's community camp--?)

They were around Saddle Mountain. Close to Saddle Mountain. And we come from Mount Sheridan. See, Mears is pretty near, almost ten miles (away). And that's where they live and I gave you that picture to copy, didn't I, last time--the old man sitting out there--that was the house we was going to visit--close to there. We didn't go to Old Man Hunting Horse's house--to another house that's in the same community.

(Did your grandmother live with your folks?)

Yeah. She lived with my mother. She wasn't married to her husband then.
