on both sides, so if he can answer, fine. If he doesn't know he can say he doesn't know.

Go ahead.

(by Mr. O'Bryan) All right. Is it possible, then, that some of that land belonged to the State of Oklahoma out there and that the federal government simply purchased the land in trust for the welfare of Indians?

Now, by Indians, I mean all Indians in the area.

- You mean directly from state ownership?
- Directly from state ownership or from . individuals who were simply -- had proprietary interest in the land.
  - Yes, it is possible.
- Do you know if the State of Oklahoma has ever seated its rights over any of that land?
  - . I don't know.
- You used the word "Kenwood Indian Reserve," a minute ago. Was this reservation land at anytime? I'm confused about the word "reserve," as opposed to the word ~ reservation."
- Our records officially call this a project, not a reserve or not a reservation. Now --
- To your knowledge was any of this property eserved property, now?
